

Experienced wind farm developer required

Be part of an exciting, growing team

Following two very successful years and building on a strong pipeline of nine consented sites and numerous others pre-consent, Your Energy is looking to hire a new wind farm developer.

Senior Project Developer

- Central London location
- Competitive salary and benefits package

Suitable candidates will have:

- a degree in planning, environment, construction or engineering and ideally a post graduate qualification in finance, business or an MBA;
- at least five years experience of developing power projects (ideally some wind based);
- experience taking at least one project through from first landowner engagement to operation.

Key requirements:

- understanding of the technical/planning aspects of wind farm development;
- business acumen;
- basic understanding of contracts/legal structures;
- outstanding inter-personal and communication skills; and
- formidable tenacity, enthusiasm and creativity.

Based in our London offices with some travel throughout UK and occasionally Europe and North America, you will report directly to the Managing Director. Your Energy is part of the Mistral group of companies, which now amounts to more than 30 professionals active in the field and over €200 million of investment capital under management.

All applications treated with strictest confidence. Please email info@your-energy.co.uk with full CV, references and cover letter.
